

2026春新沪教牛津版英语八年级下册

Unit 2 Body language 单元测试卷

(满分: 100 分 考试时间: 60 分钟)

一、单项选择 (15 分, 每题 1 分)

- () 1. Good eye contact is important for effective _____ with others.
A. communicate B. communication C. communicating D. communicator
- () 2. The girl _____ her head to show that she agreed with our plan.
A. nodded B. shook C. crossed D. held
- () 3. _____ in line quietly is a basic polite behavior in public places.
A. Stand B. To stand C. Standing D. Stood
- () 4. He is good at _____ his ideas clearly through body language.
A. express B. to express C. expressing D. expressed
- () 5. The way you sit and stand _____ a good impression on people around you.
A. makes B. takes C. gives D. leaves
- () 6. —What does _____ your arms mean in most countries?
—It usually shows that you feel angry or defensive.
A. crossing B. cross C. crossed D. to cross
- () 7. She reminded me _____ smile at others when talking, as it helps build trust.
A. to B. of C. for D. about
- () 8. _____ into someone's eyes while talking shows you are honest and confident.
A. Look B. Looking C. To look D. Looked
- () 9. The manager's friendly gesture made the new employee _____ welcome.
A. feel B. to feel C. feeling D. felt
- () 10. Different cultures may have different _____ of the same body language.
A. meanings B. messages C. expressions D. appearances
- () 11. He sighed _____ when he heard the bad news, showing his sadness.
A. loudly B. gently C. heavily D. quickly
- () 12. My teacher encouraged us _____ more attention to body language in daily communication.
A. pay B. to pay C. paying D. paid
- () 13. —Why did she refuse _____ the manager's hand?
—Because in her culture, shaking hands with strangers is not common.
A. shake B. to shake C. shaking D. shook
- () 14. It's impolite _____ your head up and look down on others when talking.

A. hold B. to hold C. holding D. held

- () 15. Body language is more than just gestures; it _____ how you stand, sit and move.
A. includes B. explains C. describes D. practices

二、根据汉语提示完成句子 (10 分, 每空 1 分)

1. 第一次见面时, 微笑和握手能给别人留下好印象。

Smiling and shaking hands can _____ a good _____ on others when meeting for the first time.

2. 不要交叉手臂站着, 这会让你看起来很不友好。

Don't stand with your arms _____, as it will make you look _____.

3. 眼神交流是沟通的重要部分, 它能表明你在认真倾听。

Eye _____ is an important part of communication; it can show you are listening _____.

4. 她抬起头, 将目光转向我, 似乎有话要说。

She _____ her head _____ and turned her eyes to me, as if she had something to say.

5. 在不同的国家, 相同的手势可能有不同的含义。

The same gesture may have different _____ in different _____.

三、完形填空 (15 分, 每题 1.5 分)

Body language is an important part of communication. It can show our feelings and thoughts without using words. When we meet people for the first time, our body language often makes the first 1 _____.

Last month, my classmate Lily went for a part-time job interview. She prepared well for the questions, but she didn't pay much attention to her body language. During the interview, she sat with her arms crossed and avoided 2 _____ the interviewer's eyes. She also kept sighing when thinking about answers and played with her hair unconsciously. In the end, she didn't get the job. The interviewer told her that her body language made her seem 3 _____ and unconfident.

On the other hand, my friend Tom had a different experience. He also went for an interview. He sat up straight, 4 _____ with a smile, and maintained eye contact with the interviewer. He nodded his head when listening and used gentle gestures to 5 _____ his ideas. When the interviewer asked a difficult question, he didn't rush to answer—instead, he leaned forward slightly to show he was thinking carefully. His body language showed he was friendly and confident. As a result, he got the job easily.

These two stories show how important body language is. It's not enough just to speak clearly. We also need to use proper body language to 6 _____ ourselves better. Whether in interviews, talks or daily conversations, good body language can help us communicate more 7 _____. What's more, it can also help us 8 _____ misunderstandings with people from different cultures. For example, in some Asian countries, bowing is a sign of respect, while in Western countries, a firm handshake is more common.

We should always be aware of our body language. Small changes like sitting up straight, smiling, and making eye contact can make a big difference. Let's pay more attention to how we stand, sit and move—after all, our body is talking too, and we want it to send the 9 _____ message. By mastering good body language skills, we can build better relationships and 10 _____ more success in life.

- | | | | | |
|---------|----------------|-----------------|--------------|---------------|
| () 1. | A. impression | B. message | C. meaning | D. expression |
| () 2. | A. look | B. looking | C. to look | D. looked |
| () 3. | A. polite | B. shy | C. friendly | D. active |
| () 4. | A. shook hands | B. crossed arms | C. smiled | D. nodded |
| () 5. | A. express | B. receive | C. accept | D. reject |
| () 6. | A. understand | B. introduce | C. express | D. know |
| () 7. | A. smoothly | B. difficultly | C. carefully | D. quickly |
| () 8. | A. cause | B. avoid | C. create | D. accept |
| () 9. | A. wrong | B. bad | C. right | D. funny |
| () 10. | A. achieve | B. miss | C. avoid | D. lose |

四、阅读理解 (20 分, 每题 2 分)

(A)

Body Language in Different Cultures

Body language is not the same all over the world. What is polite in one culture may be impolite in another. Knowing these differences can help avoid misunderstandings.

In most Western countries, shaking hands is a common greeting. People usually shake hands firmly when they meet. However, in some Asian countries, a gentle handshake or a bow is more appropriate. For example, in Japan, people often bow to show respect. The depth of the bow depends on how much respect they want to show.

Eye contact is another example. In many Western cultures, looking into someone's eyes while talking is a sign of honesty and interest. But in some Middle Eastern and Asian cultures, too much eye contact is considered rude, especially when talking to elders or people in authority.

Crossing arms is also different. In most countries, it may show that you are angry or not interested. But in some places, it's just a comfortable way to stand. Another gesture is nodding the head. In most parts of the world, nodding means "yes" and shaking means "no". But in Bulgaria, it's the opposite—nodding means "no" and shaking means "yes"!

So when communicating with people from different cultures, it's important to learn about their body language customs. This can help you make a good impression and communicate better.

根据短文内容，选择最佳答案。

- () 1. What is a common greeting in most Western countries?
A. Bowing. B. Shaking hands. C. Nodding. D. Smiling.
- () 2. In Japan, the depth of a bow shows _____.
A. how happy you are B. how angry you are
C. how much respect you have D. how tired you are
- () 3. In some Middle Eastern cultures, too much eye contact is _____.
A. polite B. rude C. honest D. interesting
- () 4. What does crossing arms mean in most countries?
A. You are comfortable. B. You are interested.
C. You are angry or uninterested. D. You are happy.
- () 5. In Bulgaria, nodding the head means _____.
A. "yes" B. "no" C. "thank you" D. "sorry"

(B)

The Power of Eye Contact

Eye contact is one of the most powerful forms of body language. It can send strong messages without saying a word.

When you make eye contact with someone, it shows that you are paying attention to them. It makes the other person feel valued and respected. For example, when you are talking to a friend, maintaining eye contact shows that you care about what they are saying. On the contrary, avoiding eye contact may make people think you are not listening or that you are lying.

Eye contact is also important in professional situations. During a job interview, eye contact with the interviewer can show that you are confident and honest. It can help you make a good impression and increase your chances of getting the job. In meetings, eye contact can help you connect with your colleagues and show that you are engaged in the discussion.

However, it's important to remember that the amount of eye contact should be appropriate. Too much eye contact can make people feel uncomfortable or even threatened. In general, keeping eye contact for 3-5 seconds at a time is a good rule. After that, you can look away briefly before making eye contact again.

In short, eye contact is a simple but effective way to improve communication. By using it properly, you can build better relationships with others and communicate more successfully.

根据短文内容，选择最佳答案。

- () 6. What does eye contact show when talking to a friend?

- A. You are bored. B. You care about what they say.
C. You are lying. D. You are tired.
- () 7. Why is eye contact important in a job interview?
A. It shows confidence and honesty. B. It makes the interviewer feel threatened.
C. It helps you avoid difficult questions. D. It shows you are not nervous.
- () 8. How long is appropriate to keep eye contact at a time?
A. 1-2 seconds. B. 3-5 seconds. C. 6-8 seconds. D. 9-10 seconds.
- () 9. What may happen if you use too much eye contact?
A. People will think you are honest.
B. People will feel comfortable.
C. People will feel uncomfortable or threatened.
D. People will think you are listening.
- () 10. What is the main idea of the passage?
A. How to greet people with eye contact.
B. The importance and proper use of eye contact.
C. Different eye contact customs in cultures.
D. Why eye contact is bad in some situations.

五、词汇运用 (10 分, 每题 1 分)

用括号内所给词的适当形式填空。

1. _____ (communicate) with others through body language is a useful skill in daily life.
2. She refused _____ (shake) hands with the stranger because of her cultural customs.
3. The teacher reminded us _____ (pay) attention to our facial expressions when giving speeches.
4. _____ (nod) your head in most countries means you agree with something.
5. His friendly gesture made me _____ (feel) welcome at the new school.
6. Different _____ (culture) may have different meanings for the same gesture.
7. He is good at _____ (express) his ideas clearly with both words and body language.
8. The well-dressed lady _____ (smile) at me politely when we met in the street.
9. _____ (cross) your arms may make you look unfriendly in many situations.
10. We should learn about body language to avoid _____ (misunderstand) in communication.

六、句型转换 (10 分, 每题 2 分)

1. Body language plays an important role in communication. (改为一般疑问句) _____ body language _____ an important role in communication?
2. He nodded his head to show he agreed. (对划线部分提问)
_____ he nod his head?
3. She told us not to avoid eye contact when talking. (改为同义句)
She told us we _____ eye contact when talking.
4. Making eye contact with others is polite. (改为同义句)
_____ to make eye contact with others.
5. We can improve our communication skills by learning body language. (对划线部分提问) _____ we improve our communication skills?

七、书面表达 (20 分)

假设你是李华，你的英国笔友 Peter 即将来中国交流学习，他想了解中国的肢体语言礼仪。请你给他写一封邮件，介绍一些重要的中国肢体语言礼仪，包括问候方式、眼神交流、手势等方面。要求：

1. 词数 80 左右；
2. 语句通顺，语法正确；
3. 格式完整，符合邮件要求。