study. One year, he faced a difficult physical problem 2. ___in___ puzzled many scholars. For days, he kept 3. thinking (think) day and night but got no answer. One evening, he took a bath to relax 4. himself (he). When he stepped into the bathtub, he noticed water run over the edge. Suddenly, he got a brilliant idea! 5. What a wonderful discovery moment it was! He rushed out and tested his idea again and again. Finally, he solved the difficult problem 6. successfully (success). So far, his discovery 7. has changed (change) people's understanding of buoyancy. Never give up when you meet difficulties, 8. ___the___ great ideas may come at any time. His experience tells us that creativity 9. comes (come) from careful observation and persistent thinking. We should learn 10. to keep (keep) thinking in our daily study.

Passage 3

Archimedes is one of the greatest ancient Greek scientists and mathematicians. He loved thinking and exploring problems in daily life. He was 1. ___ so curious about nature that he always found new questions to